

Theatre

20 SEPTEMBER - 5 JANUARY

IAN MCKELLEN ON STAGE

What better way to toast national treasure Sir Ian McKellen's eightieth birthday than by watching him perform his most cherished roles? The living legend's one-man show comes to the Harold Pinter Theatre, following a sold-out performance at The Old Vic in February. Expect to see the octogenarian do his best Gandalf and Lear, share anecdotes about his famous roles and perhaps even invite a friend or two onstage.

ianonstage.co.uk

Art

UNTIL 6 OCTOBER

PAD LONDON

In an unassuming pavilion in Berkeley Square, PAD London has become one of the world's most stylish art fairs. Clued-up collectors come to peruse a brilliant curation of art and design pieces from galleries across Europe, North America and Asia.

pad-fairs.com

CALENDAR

Clockwise from above: armchair by Martin Eisler and Carlo Hauner; Cabinet de Sèvres (1989) by Garouste & Bonetti; Sculpture, Andile Dyalvane; table by Alain Marcelpoil; clutch bag by Silvia Furmanovich

OCTOBER

Clockwise from above: Georgina Cohen in Roksanda; coat, £1,395, Peter Pilotto; truffle pizza, Jean-Georges at The Connaught; Acts/Osiris-Rex (2016) by Sterling Ruby

← BEST OF ART →

The Art Insider's Guide
by Georgina Cohen

Gagosian Gallery Director Georgina Cohen shares her top tips for getting the most out of London during Art month.

Stay at... The Connaught.

The show I'm most looking forward to...

Cy Twombly, Sculpture, at Gagosian Grosvenor Hill until 21 December.

If you have only one hour, I recommend...

Olafur Eliasson: In Real Life and Ed Ruscha (Artist Rooms) both at Tate Modern.

The best place for lunch... Jean-Georges at The Connaught or Scott's in Mayfair.

Labels to wear... Phillip Lim, Roksanda and Peter Pilotto.

While you're in London... see the Sterling

Ruby Acts + Table sculpture show at Gagosian Britannia Street (2 October - 14 December) and PAD London (above).

At night, you'll find the art crowd hanging out... at Annabel's.