PAD London 2026: 7 imaginative pieces not to miss at this year's art and design fair

From textiles to tables, diamonds to dramatic sculpture

PUBLISHED: 12 OCTOBER 2026

Whether you attend PAD London to admire or acquire, you'll be dazzled by the pottery, paintings, pieces of jewellery and cutting-edge furniture – among everything else on display at the annual collectible design fair. Mayfair's Berkeley Square will be hosting galleries from around the world – from London to Lebanon – showcasing their finest wares, both 20th-century and contemporary.

Here, we have rounded up the pieces we'll be making a beeline for at this year's fair:

1/ 'Miroir' by Carlo Bugatti at Yves Salomon

COURTESY PAD LONDON

The Parisian fashion house continues to expand its recent expansion into design and interiors, and its emerging status as a gallery, so this year is bringing together a conversation between archival and contemporary pieces. A highlight of their wares at PAD is this glistening mirror by the Art Nouveau master Carlo Bugatti.

2/ 'Natural Tendencies' (2026) by Andrea Nassar at PIK'D

COURTESY PAD LONDON

Nature's bounty is also a source of fascination for the Australian-Lebanese ceramicist Andrea Nassar, whose work is shown by the brilliant Beirut-based gallery PIK'D. Exploring the way plants expand, evolve and flourish, she creates large, voluptuous floral vessels whose unfurling petals are astonishingly delicate.

3/ 'Macri' bracelets, Buccellati at Buccellati

COURTESY PAD LONDON

Buccellati has been crafting high jewellery and watches in Milan for more than 100 years, but 2026 marks its debut in this London landmark event. The Macri collection is one of the most glorious: using the hand-engraving 'rigato' technique, in which tiny lines are hand-engraved onto the gold, to create a softening effect, giving the precious metal the look of the softest silk. For added sparkle, it is then inlaid with diamonds.

4/ 'The Watcher' coffee table by Rebeka Rácz at Initio Art & Design

Sculpture meets state-of-the-art home furniture in the Hungarian artist's piece. Specialising in ceramics and painting, for this project, she has gone large in scale, making a table from a mosaic of individual ceramic, hand-painted tiles. Surely the ultimate statement table?

5/ 'Gilardi (Green)' by Ptolemy Mann (2026) Tristan Hoare Gallery

COURTESY PAD LONDON

A trip to Japan in 2024 – one she had long been desperate to make – had a profound and revolutionary influence on the Sussex-based paint and textile artist Ptolemy Mann's work. She set to work creating her vast canvases inspired by the landscapes of the Kyushu region – awash with morning mists, vast bodies of water, bamboo glades – as well as the ikat weaves she found on the island of Amami Oshima. The resulting pieces will light up her gallery Tristan Hoare's corner of the PAD tent, and you can read an interview with her in the November issue of Bazaar.

6/ 'Wall of Wilderness Tapestry I' (2026) by Adriana Meunié at Sarah Myerscough Gallery

For her intriguing new wallhanging series, the Mallorcan artist worked closely with materials she found on her native island including esparto (made from grass), sisal, linen, estopa (formed of waste matter from producing flax and cotton), and rope. In the works – which, with their bulging forms and soft fibres, are almost creature-like – she is interrogating our connection to land and how humans can harness both its practical uses and visual beauty.

7/ 'Métropole' by Pierre Lapeyronnie at 88
Gallery

PAD London 2026 is at Berkeley Square, London W1 from 13 to 18 October.
