

Elizabeth Hurley, 50, looks incredible as she shows off her age-defying figure in typically skimpy black dress for art fair launch

By CIARA FARMER FOR MAILONLINE

PUBLISHED: 22:25, 12 October 2015 | UPDATED: 00:37, 13 October 2015

f Share t p g+ ✉ ↻ 69 shares 81 View comments

She found world-wide fame in 1994 on the back of an iconic black dress.

And Elizabeth Hurley showed she still has it over two decades later as she stepped out in a figure hugging gown to attend the launch of the PAD art fair in London on Monday night.

The 50-year-old actress showed off her famous figure in the little black dress with matching strappy heels and a brightly coloured clutch bag.

Scroll down for video

LBD: Elizabeth Hurley stepped out in a figure hugging gown to attend the launch of the PAD art gallery in London on Monday night

Elizabeth showed off every inch of her toned curves in the skimpy dress, which featured a stunning studded, halter-style neckline which also boasted two thin straps and a thick panel across the chest.

The dress was studded with holes and some boasted small hoops within some of the metal rings.

SHARE THIS ARTICLE

69 shares

RELATED ARTICLES

Elizabeth Hurley, 50, is divine in a shape-hugging pink...

Perfect in pink! Elizabeth Hurley, 50, shows off her trim...

Elizabeth Hurley, 50, cuts a chic autumnal figure in fitted...

GIRL ABOUT TOWN: Theresa plays her Cards right

Adding a delicately matching touch to the ensemble - the straps on her sky-high heel mirrored the neckline on her unique gown.

The Bedazzled star draped a fur coat over her arm as she walked down the street and showed off the only dash of colour to her look with a stripey clutch bag.

The PAD Gallery is returning to Mayfair for its ninth year, and sees some of the world's leading art collectors gather to purchase pieces.

The event exhibits paintings and artworks from around the globe as it takes up in Berkley Square, PAD London runs from 14th-18th October.

© Nick Harvey/REX Shutterstock

+10

Launch night: The PAD Gallery is returning to Mayfair for its ninth year, and sees some of the world's leading art collectors gather to purchase pieces